

EPISODE 2: "CHEETOS FLAMIN' HOT ASTEROIDS"

Buckle up, snack-stronauts, on today pod we go to space! This episode, Toomgis talk about mysterious arrival of Cheetos Flamin' Hot Asteroids.

(WALKIE-TALKIE STATIC)

Toomgis clear for podcast liftoff in 3...2...1...

(PODCAST INTRO MUSIC PLAYS)

Welcome to Snack Origins. Alright, let jump into it. Cheetos Flamin' Hot Asteroids. Real or myth? Friend, they are very real. They first fell into our snack orbit in the year of our Toomgis 2009.

The asteroids form when Chester's Comet fly into red, flamin' hot planet. This often called Big Snack Bang. But the asteroids disappeared v v quickly. Mostly, 'cause Toomgis stress-eat after that rapper interrupt that singer at award show. Yes, it was that year.

Ten year later, with no warning, rumors started in the space-snacking community—it niche community—that more asteroids would land.

After Toomgis hear rumor, Toomgis want to be good starman, like Galileo, so Toomgis look through snack telescope, and you know what Toomgis see?

(TOOMGIS GASPS)

Another Chester Comet fly toward red, flamin' hot planet! So, Toomgis hurry and call Mr. ampm to prepare for asteroid collecting. And now Cheetos Flamin' Hot Asteroids are back on shelf at ampm. After Toomgis take ten percent finder fee.

(TOOMGIS LAUGHS)

That all time we have. As always, don't forget to subscribe and rate show. See you next pod. Toomgis your host, and happy snacking!